Rock School star Lil' Chris dies aged 24

REALITY TV star and singer Lil' Chris has died aged 24 in his hometown of Lowestoft. The diminutive pop star, real name Chris Hardman, shot to fame in Channel 4's Rock School after Kiss frontman Gene Simmons made him the lead singer of a student band.

Once the cameras had gone, he was offered a solo deal and went on to have a top five hit with Checkin' It Out in 2006.

Allan Dodgeon, the star's former manager, said he was in "complete shock".

He added: "He was an outstanding talent and it was a pleasure to work with him. Our thoughts are with his friends and family."

A Suffolk Police spokesperson said: "Police investigating the sudden death of a man in Lowestoft can confirm they are not treating it as suspicious."

Pub tosser spared jail

SERIAL flasher Simon Woods has been banned from every pub in Britain for 10 years because he likes knocking one out in the bar.

The 48-year-old was spotted touching himself by a terrified barmaid but was spared jail yesterday.

Woods, who was on a suspended sentence for similar offences at the time, was kicked out of the pub in Aylesbury, Bucks, on January 28 when the shocked worker alerted a guest.

At Aylesbury Crown Court, he was handed another suspended jail term and banned from entering any licensed premises for 10 years.

150 DIE IN ALPS PLANE HORROR

SALVAGE: A rescue helicopter from the French Sécurité Civile flies towards the crash site of the Airbus A320

By NEIL GOODWIN neil@sundaysport.co.uk

A GERMANWINGS passenger jet carrying at least 150 people has crashed in a remote part of the French Alps, killing all on board.

The pilots sent out no distress call and had lost radio contact, France's aviation authority said, deepening the mystery over the A320's mid-flight crash following a steep descent lasting eight minutes as it travelled from Barcelona to Dusseldorf.

The plane crashed at an altitude of 6,550 feet yesterday at Meolans-Revels, near the popular ski resort of Pra Loup, and 430 miles from Paris.

The crash left officials and families across Europe in shock, with sobbing relatives at both airports being helped by airport workers and counsellors.

German chancellor Angela Merkel said in Berlin: "We still don't know much beyond the bare information on the flight, and there should be no speculation on the cause of the crash. "All that will be investigated thoroughly."

French interior minister Bernard Cazeneuve said a black box had been located at the crash site, although last night it was not immediately clear if it had been recovered.

Photos of crash site from the La Provence newspaper showed scattered black flecks across a mountain and several larger aeroplane body sections with windows, five in one chunk and four in another.

French prime minister Manuel Valls said a helicopter crew that landed briefly in the area saw no signs of life.

Gilbert Sauvan, president of the general council at Alpes-de-

Haute-Provence in south-west France, told reporters: "Everything is pulverised."

"The largest pieces of debris is the size of a small car. No-one can access the site from the ground."

Germanwings last night confirmed Flight 9525 carried 144 passengers – including two babies – and six crew members.

Students

Officials believe 67 German nationals were on board, including 16 high school students on an exchange programme from the German town of Haltern.

Dutch officials said one Dutch citizen was also killed.

Eric Heraud of the French Civil Aviation Authority said the plane lost radio contact half an hour after leaving Barcelona, but "never declared a distress alert itself".

Sandrine Boisse, the president of the Pra Loup tourism office, said: "It was a deafening noise. I thought it was an avalanche, although it sounded slightly different. It was short noise and lasted just a few seconds."

French interior ministry spokesman Pierre-Henry Brandet told BFM TV he expected "an extremely long and extremely difficult" search and rescue operation because of the area's remoteness.

The aircraft had around 58,300 flight hours in some 46,700 flights and last had a routine check in Dusseldorf on Monday.

Choppers boost for Falklands

BRITAIN is to deploy two RAF Chinook transport helicopters to help bolster the defence of the Falklands amid renewed fears of a fresh Argentinian invasion of the islands.

Defence Secretary Michael Fallon said the helicopters would enable the islands' garrison to mount a "swift and decisive response" to any "emerging incidents".

In a Commons statement Mr Fallon (above) said a review of the islands' defences had found they were "broadly proportionate" to the current threat level.

However he said the Government would be investing £180million over the next 10 years in upgrades.

Mr Fallon said: "The review we have undertaken confirms our commitment to the Falkland Islands."

"We will continue to defend the right of the islanders to maintain their way of life against whatever threats may arise."

He added that the principal threat to the Falklands remains the quite unjustified claim of Argentina to the islands' ownership.

Fergie leads tributes to Dave Mackay

FOOTBALL legends joined hundreds of supporters and mourners to pay their final respects to former Tottenham, Hearts and Scotland captain Dave Mackay.

The Edinburgh-born midfielder (above) died in hospital earlier this month at the age of 80.

Famous football faces including Sir Alex Ferguson, Denis Law, Frank McLintock, Ian St John, Alan Mullery and Bertie Auld attended Mackay's funeral in Edinburgh yesterday.

Mackay won all three Scottish domestic honours with Hearts in the 1950s and was a key part of Spurs' famous 1961 team.

Spurs were represented by greats including Pat Jennings, Terry Medwin, Alan Gilzean, Steve Perryman, Mike England and Clive Allen.

Mackay helped the north London club become the first English side to win the league and FA Cup double.

Justin back in UK for festival gig

POP idol Justin Bieber is set to play his first UK show since his disastrous tour two years ago.

The singer will appear at the Fusion Festival in Birmingham on Friday August 28.

The 21-year-old Canadian (above) said: "I love the UK and I'm really excited to be playing at Fusion this year."

"There are some great artists on the line-up so to be headlining the Friday night is a real honour."

His 2013 gigs at London's O2 upset fans after he started one concert late, leaving some stranded and others having to go home shortly after it began.

Another gig was disrupted when he left the stage mid-song after complaining of being "light of breath".

He was also forced to explain himself after he lashed out at a snappa following what he said had been a "rough week", saying his adrenaline was running high.

Lucy's livid at lads who ogle her sexy selfies

REALITY babe Lucy Mecklenburgh has blurted out: "I do NOT want your spunk!"

The ex-TOWIE star is furious that men are WANKING over her sexy selfies.

Lucy (above), 25, reckons her Instagram snaps are supposed to "inspire" women to get fit, but the Essex-born beauty is NOT happy they are being used as PORN by sex-crazed fans.

She raged: "I try to post things on social media that inspire women to get up and go to the gym, rather than just being gawped at by men."

"I never big myself up, but I do like my small waist."

Lucy is currently dating fellow Tumble contestant, gymnast Louis Smith, 25.

She continued: "We didn't get together romantically until a few months after the show. We met up as a cast and that's how I got to know him properly."

STRAIGHT TALKING FROM UKIP'S DEPUTY LEADER

It's time we handed power back...to YOU

I'M not really a rugby union fan – I prefer football by a country mile. If I had to choose I'd say I prefer rugby league to rugby union. I think it's faster and more exciting and, being a northern lad, I've been to far more rugby league matches.

But I don't think anyone can deny that last Saturday's Six Nations finale was something else. Every sports fan across the country must have been glued to their TV as four out of the six nations were in with a chance of winning the trophy on the last day.

As you probably know, the Irish scored enough points against the Scots to ensure that England fell just six short in their match against the French, meaning the Irish retained the trophy.

Regardless of the fact that as an Englishman I was gutted that England didn't get over the line, it was a fantastic day of sport and a great day for rugby union.

WHILE campaigning around the country this last week, I've been asking people what issues most concern them.

Unsurprisingly, they largely respond citing issues such as the economy, the NHS and immigration.

But the one overriding piece of feedback is that people feel completely cut off from politics and the decisions politicians make on their behalf in Britain today.

Voters just like you feel left behind – that they have no real influence over how the country is run.

It's sad to hear, but it's my belief that this is because people feel they've been lied to far too many times by politicians.

They lived through the early Tony Blair years of hope, only to discover the man they thought would change politics ended up just the same as the rest.

As a result they have become hardened cynics. They looked at the budget giveaway last week, for example, and saw it for what it really was – little more than a cynical pre-election stunt.

This feeling of being let down has led many to feel politicians are "all the same".

Secondly, they feel those same politicians are an alien species. They don't look, act or sound like normal people. They also rarely give a straight answer to a straight question.

Indeed, one of the many things I am learning is that politics is increasingly about empathy. The public want people they can relate to and not, as in days gone by, someone they would defer to.

Drifted

Finally, people feel as if they don't really have a stake in the political process – decision making has been taken out of their hands. The sad thing is, they're right. Decision-making has drifted away from us over the past 30 years.

Choices are now rarely taken in local communities by local representatives. Instead, they're more than likely taken in London, or increasingly by Eurocrats in Brussels.

This needs to change, but the answer isn't Labour's "combined authorities" or "city regions". It is by handing as much power as possible back to local communities, by creating more town and parish councils and giving them more money and greater responsibilities.

At the moment there are nine thousand town and parish councils covering 25 per cent of England. But I believe ALL of the country should be represented by this most local form of government.

And I think we should go further – by devolving power down to people through direct democracy and allow for local referendums on local issues.

This would be giving REAL power back to local communities to make decisions on issues that affect them most.

We must bring politics back to people through real localism, and not just empty promises and slogans.

As ever more of us feel left behind it is clear that our current system is broken.

This is obviously not good for politics or politicians.

But far more importantly, it's not good for society as a whole.

Justin Dunn's Room 101

WHAT'S ANNOYING HIM THIS WEEK?

If mob hounded Harriet, Left would be screaming

IMAGINE if Harriet Harman was out for Sunday lunch with her husband and children when a snarling, chanting mob of bizarrely-dressed strangers suddenly jumped on her car.

Imagine if two of her young, school-aged children were so spooked by the terrifying experience they later ran away to hide.

We quite simply – and quite rightly – would not have heard the end of it.

You don't have to be a fan of the Labour deputy leader to understand that the very idea of someone terrorising her and her family purely on the grounds of her politics would be absolutely abominable.

Had it happened, leftie paper The Guardian would quite literally have had to stop the press in order to cram in yet more stories about louts and fruitcakes threatening our political system.

It would demand inquiries into her security detail, raise questions in the Commons, and call at the very least for a high profile police investigation.

Human rights organisations Amnesty International and Liberty would be struggling to squeeze past each other into the doors of the BBC and Channel 4.

The likes of Evan Davies or Jon Snow would await them with understanding frowns and no small amount of publicly-funded sympathy.

Now try to imagine that it was not Harriet Harman and her family in that car, but you and yours.

Picture your imaginary 15 and 10-year-old daughters stricken by fear as a bunch of angry weirdos jostle and shove the vehicle while screaming obscenities in your faces.

Then imagine that basic parental, guttural fear when the girls later run away to hide – albeit temporarily – because they were so affected by the attack.

Horrible, isn't it?

Yet when the very same thing happened to UKIP boss Nigel Farage on Sunday afternoon, it was reported in much the same manner as a failed raid on a jewellery store or minor car crash.

The subsequent articles might as well have been headed: "Something happened somewhere – not many dead."

Intolerant

The ricepaper-thin excuse given by mob organiser Dan Glass for terrorising those poor kids was that his outrageous demonstration was a "celebration of diversity".

He and his merry band of halfwits were preaching tolerance, apparently – in the most intolerant way possible. And Glass got a tacit slap on the back from the BBC when he was given chunks of airtime the next day to explain his actions.

If it HAD been Harriet Harman and her family at the receiving end of this callous mobbing, Glass wouldn't have been speaking to the Beeb, but to the Plod.

That he isn't is because he's left wing – and so ticks all the boxes that Those People who dangerously infect all levels of public life approve.

Like the spoilt, fat kid in the playground, the Left simply HAS to be always, always right.

Even when it's so very obviously and quite clearly in the wrong.

'Cock-suck' rant rocks Gear's May

RED-FACED James May has responded to an angry Twitter troll who suggested he start "sucking cock" for money now that he hasn't got a job at the Beeb!

Top Gear host May (above) is currently in limbo as he awaits the result of an investigation into suspended co-star Jeremy Clarkson.

He's been passing the time doing DIY while posting updates about his "unemployment" online.

One nasty user took aim at the long-haired 52-year-old on the web, saying: "Someone needs to bum the c into oblivion. I hope he ends up a penniless crack addict who sucks cock for rock."

Startled May immediately noticed the misnomer in the term "bum the c" – with 'McGonzo' having confused his genitals – and retorted: "Isn't this contradictory?"

And fans were quick to leap to May's defence too, with one slamming the vile poster: "What a fing tw*t. Carry on Mr May."

Beauty queen was sex slave

A SWEDISH beauty queen being used as a sex slave for six months by a bogus model agent has been rescued.

The 22-year-old woman, who has not been named, was a finalist in a Miss Universe competition and travelled to Italy after being contacted via Facebook by a fake agent.

But instead of finding her catwalk work the man beat her up and kept her locked in his Milan flat, where he raped and sexually assaulted her.

A police source in the city said: "When we raided the apartment she was absolutely terrified and it took some convincing to reassure her we were there to help her."

Police said she had been tied up during her ordeal and raped several times while being held.

Last night the woman was being treated in a local hospital while a 43-year-old man was in police custody.

CAGED: SON WHO COOKED AND ATE HIS MUM & DAD

Heads in fridge and leftovers packed away in lunchboxes

By NEIL GOODWIN neil@sundaysport.co.uk

A MAN who murdered his parents before chopping up their bodies and cooking them in a microwave has been jailed for life.

Henry Chau Hoi-lueng, 31, was found guilty of killing his mother Siu Yuet-ye, 63, and father Chau Wing-ki, 65, before salting, cooking and packing their body parts into lunchboxes "like barbecued pork".

It is thought that he wanted them dead after they became reluctant to fund his lavish lifestyle.

At Hong Kong's High Court Judge Michael Stuart Moore also handed down an additional nine years and four months in jail for two separate charges of preventing the lawful burials of his parents.

He described Chau as "narcissistic" and "preoccupied with fantasies for success" before branding him a "dangerous individual".

A few days after they disappeared, their eldest son Chau Hoi-ying, wanted to raise the alarm but Chau said they were on a visit.

However, he then sent a WhatsApp message to friends admitting that he had killed his parents.

They reported this to police and when officers arrived at a flat belonging to his friend Tso, they found Chau's parents' heads stored in two large refrigerators.

Several plastic boxes containing chopped flesh and organs were also found, along with a further three boxes containing salted body parts.

The missing body parts are believed to have been cooked and eaten.

A pathologist claims the couple were stabbed in either their chest or neck before being dismembered.

Prosecutors say Chau was angry at his dad for refusing to turn the volume down on the TV while he studied and he was also annoyed with his mum for forcing him to study the piano.

And the fiery redhead – who's dated babes in the past – won't rule out a same-sex bunk-up.

The X-Files beauty, 46, said: "I'm leaning towards the idea that it's time for somebody to be brave enough to ask me out."

"What I am sure about is that I want my next relationship to be The One."

"I wouldn't discount another same-sex relationship. I did it before and I'm not closed to that idea."

"To me a relationship is about loving another human being. Their gender is irrelevant."

Meanwhile, Gillian says she's not shy of doing the chasing either.

She admitted: "I've asked out guys in the past. I remember being in the cinema in the States and I made eye contact with a man going in. We were both with friends, but he caught up with me as we were filing out."

"I went up to him and said 'Would you like a coffee sometime?' We dated for six months."

The Lara Croft star emotionally revealed she made the decision after doctors said she was at an increased risk of developing ovarian cancer.

Writing in The New York Times, Angelina (above), 39, who carries a mutated gene, said the decision was "not easy".

She explained: "My doctors indicated I should have preventive surgery about a decade before the earliest onset of cancer in my female relatives."

"My mother's ovarian cancer was diagnosed when she was 49."

Angelina had prepared herself "physically and emotionally" for the op.

"He's indoors with his bird or taking her for meals."

Runaway in milk float sting op

A STOLEN milk float left a trail of destruction in its wake – until police stopped by a STINGER.

Cops were forced to use the device – a bed of nails stretched across a road – after it was spotted driving the wrong way down a dual carriageway.

West Midlands police detained a 28-year-old man on suspicion of theft after the open-sided delivery van littered parts of Birmingham with milk bottles and bread.

A spokesman for West Midlands police said: "The van was being driven very erratically and dangerously, so a decision was taken to deflate its tyres with a stinger."

Police also said the man remained in custody on suspicion of theft, dangerous driving, refusing to give a breath sample, driving while disqualified and failing to stop for officers.

CHURCH MUM IN TEEN BOY SEX ROMPS WALKS FREE

'Mrs Richards was in her nightie and his trousers were pulled down. It didn't last very long as the boy described it – with her astride him...'

Affair lasted 3 years

A CHURCH-GOING mum walked free after confessing to having sex with a schoolboy less than half her age – after being caught because his suspicious mother taped their steamy phone chats.

Jehovah's Witness Kelly Richards, 36, admitted having full sex with the 15-year-old lad from her church congregation in a three-month affair.

Mum-of-two Richards was arrested after the boy's own mother taped their phone sex chats – and called the police.

But Kelly's devoted husband Paul is pledging to stand by her despite her underage sex romp – and even went with her to court where she admitted the offences.

Carpenter Paul, 34, was in court with his wife of 13 years for the hearing – helping her as she covered her face in shame.

By TALBOT RHODES
news@sundaysport.co.uk

On a social networking site Paul lists his greatest fear as "My Misses".

Brunette Richards, of Mountain Ash, South Wales, sobbed as she admitted one count of sexual activity with a child between October and December 2012.

Merthyr Tydfil Crown Court was told Richards met the boy after he befriended one of her sons at church – and he came to play on the X-Box games console in her house.

Suspicious

Richards said she began a three-month sexual relationship with him.

The court heard Richards had told the boy: "Don't tell anyone because I might get done for this".

Their relationship was uncovered after the lad's suspicious mother placed a tape recorder in her son's bedroom to discover why he had begun hiding his mobile phone and spending so much time staying with Richards.

The recording uncovered phone conversations where the boy was "asking her if she is fingering herself".

The boy admitted to police that Richards had sex with him, gave him alcohol, asked for massages and was guilty of "leading me on".

Prosecutor Roger Griffiths told the court the pair had sex after Richards had an argument with her husband.

He said: "Mrs Richards was in her bedroom crying and (the boy) went into the room to comfort her."

"Mrs Richards began kissing him and it led to full sexual intercourse."

"Mrs Richards was in her nightie and his trousers were pulled down. It didn't last very long as the boy described it – with her astride him."

The court was told the boy's housebound mother became suspicious about her son's contact with Richards and took away his mobile phone.

But Richards gave the boy a new SIM card to carry on their chats in phone calls and text messages.

The pair were arrested in February 2013 and the boy told police she had been "leading him on".

Mr Griffiths said: "There were also suggestions of leaving home when he was 16 – which greatly upset his mother."

Sarah Waters, defending, said Richards had been looking after the vulnerable 15-year-old boy because of the Jehovah's Witness community were asked to look after each other.

Incredible

Miss Waters said: "She took him out with her family to go shopping and ice skating and do all the things a young boy wants to do with a family. Their relationship obviously developed into something it shouldn't have."

Judge Richard Twomlow told Richards her victim was "vulnerable" and she had "developed a strong influence over him".

He told her: "Despite the fact you knew his age you had sexual intercourse with him at your home."

"That happened after a period of what might be described as grooming."

"When you were arrested you denied any sexual relationship."

"You did plead guilty although on the day of your trial."

Judge Twomlow told Richards he had decided "with some hesitation" not to send the mother-of-two to jail.

On Monday, Richards was sentenced to a two year suspended jail term and a sexual offences prevention order.

She will also have to sign on to the sex offenders register for 10 years.

A neighbour said: "It is incredible that Paul is sticking with her after what she has done. Having sex with an underage boy like that is disgusting."

"But Paul is like a puppy dog around her. He just follows her around and she can do what she wants."

JAMES Corden has said he is "blown away" after his U.S. talk show debut went down a storm with Yank viewers.

The British Gavin And Stacey star made his first outing as host of The Late Late Show on CBS. Corden, who is relatively unknown in America, enjoyed a star-packed guest list, including Tom Hanks and Mila Kunis, for his first show.

He joked about his "shock" at landing the gig and wiped away a tear as he thanked his parents for being in the audience.

Afterwards, he told fans on Twitter: "Well, so many truly lovely messages about the show tonight. I'm blown away, thank you."

Corden, who takes over from Scottish-born Craig Ferguson, taped the show at the network's studios in Los Angeles the day before the broadcast.

Cameos

A pre-recorded Charlie And The Chocolate Factory-themed sketch about how he got the role included appearances from Simon Cowell, Girls creator Lena Dunham, Billy Crystal, Oscar winner Eddie Redmayne and comedian Chris Rock.

Further cameos from the late-night talk show host Jay Leno, Shia LaBeouf, Meryl Streep and Arnie Schwarzenegger added to the star power on display before he brought out Hanks and Ted actress Mila.

She delivered an exclusive for his inaugural show by reluctantly revealing that she and partner Ashton Kutcher have got married.

Within minutes of the show beginning, viewers lavished praise on the star. Twitter user @sunnydeedoherty, wrote: "Our apartment is watching #LateLateShow and swooning over the amazing James Corden. Brilliant."

And Clinton Corley, using the handle @clintonINC, said: "Fantastic...no-one knows James Corden and he's got Jay Leno & a bunch of A-listers to do this video bit. The show's got possibilities."

GEORDIE Shore babe Charlotte Crosby nearly DIED while she was filming the reality TV show.

Describing the moment Charlotte said: "When we were filming for Geordie Shore, I got stuck underneath a boat.

"I fell out and was dragged along by the boat with the current. I thought I was a goner."

Thankfully, Charlotte was unharmed, and she added: "I got stuck on a rock so I could come up for air."

Meanwhile, her former co-star Vicky Pattison recently dismissed rumours of a feud between them.

She said: "It couldn't be further from the truth. I still speak to Holly Hogan and Charlotte."

"There's absolutely no rivalry and nothing malicious there at all."

YOUTUBE SEX ATTACK CHARGE

A MAN has been charged with a sex attack on a train which was videoed by another passenger and put on YouTube... two years AFTER the alleged incident.

Elisa Lopez was sexually assaulted while napping on the commuter train in October 2012, and the entire incident was caught on video and spread online.

Late last week Miss Lopez was finally vindicated when police apprehended her alleged molester, identified as 43-year-old Carlos Chuva.

He was arrested and charged with first-degree felony aggravated sexual assault.

Miss Lopez, who was at the

She woke up moments later to discover a stranger caressing her thigh and face and trying to kiss her.

Pervert

Terrified, she punched the pervert in the face and fled the subway in New York.

She did not realise the extent of the sexual assault she had endured until a work friend sent her the graphic video, which shot by a fellow passenger.

The grainy mobile phone footage recorded by Jasheem Smiley depicts a middle-aged man dressed in a faded denim jacket, a hoodie and jeans shoving his hand under the sleeping woman's skirt and groping her.

The 18-second clip of the attack quickly went viral, earning, Smiley public censure for capturing the assault on his iPhone instead of trying to stop it.

Smiley released another video on his YouTube channel just days later defending his actions that night.

"There were 10 other people on the train that didn't do anything," he explained.

"I was the one that did the most."

There's gold in them turds

BOFFINS are planning to extract gold from HUMAN POOL

An eight-year study found that levels of precious metals in faeces were comparable with those found in some commercial mines.

And mining all Britain's crap could be worth £510m a year.

Gold and silver come from trace amounts in food and drinks.

Tiny metal particles can also become dislodged from cutlery and from the gold and silver medical diagnostic tools which are used by doctors.

Jewellery accidentally flushed down the toilet also finds its way into the sewage system, as does run-off from industries.

Boffins believe that stripping excrement of metals would not only provide a lucrative source of income, but would mean waste could be more safely used as fertiliser.

Dr Kathleen Smith of the U.S. Geological Survey said: "It's a win-win."

X FACTOR runner-up Stacey Solomon is dating former Jackass star Steve-O.

The unlikely pair met during Channel 4's winter sports show The Jump earlier this year.

And two months after hitting the slopes, 25-year-old Stacey revealed they are officially a couple.

She also said that Steve-O, real name Stephen Glover, has met her two children.

London-born Stacey told New! magazine: "We are seeing each other and seeing how things go."

"I don't want to get over-excited about it though."

Stacey, who releases her debut album Shy next month, finished third on ITV's The X Factor in 2009.

She was crowned Queen of the Jungle on I'm A Celebrity... Get Me Out Of Here! the following year.

Steve-O, 40, who has been drink and drug-free for a few years, said: "My brain was fked up from using so much coke, ketamine, PCP, nitrous oxide and all other sorts of drugs."

END OF THE ROAD?
Jeremy Clarkson fears the BBC sack

KATIE PRICE

GERI HALLIWELL

JODIE KIDD

By NEIL GOODWIN neil@sundaysport.co.uk

IT'S enough to give the Stig a shiny helmet – the stunning babes of Top Gear with their soft-tops down!

The future of the telly car show currently hangs in the balance as long-time host Jeremy Clarkson awaits the results of an investigation into his twatting of a producer.

Last week Clarkson, 54, hinted that he was braced for the sack – with co-presenters James May and Richard Hammond likely to drive off into the sunset too if their mate gets the boot.

It could, then, sound the death knell for a BBC show that's enjoyed the same format for 13 years.

One long-running feature filmed at Surrey's Dunsfold Aerodrome was the 'Star In a Reasonably Priced Car' – celebs doing a lap in a cheap runabout.

Gripped

And if the show IS axed, it's babes like THIS we'll miss!

In 2010 Hollywood beauty Cameron Diaz, 42, set a new lap record for a woman on the show – putting pedal to metal to complete the course in 1min 45.2secs.

Stunning 33-year-old actress Sienna Miller – who bared her boobs in 2004 flick Alfie – left Clarkson drooling as she gripped his gearstick in 2009.

Meanwhile glamour legend Katie Price, 36, also somehow managed to squeeze her big boobs behind the wheel in 2004, doing the lap in 1min 52secs.

PRETTY ANGRY: Movie star Emma

EMMA: MY NAKED PICS HELL!

By NEIL GOODWIN neil@sundaysport.co.uk

FUMING Emma Watson has told of her nude photo leak HELL!

In September last year cruel web pranksters threatened to publish naked photos of movie star Emma in steamy action.

But the website EmmaYouAreNext.com proved to be nothing more than a hoax, and now Emma has told of her anger at the scam's perpetrators.

The 24-year-old staunch feminist said: "There was a website set up that was threatening to release naked images of me, with, like, a countdown and whatever else."

Urgent

"I knew it was a hoax, I knew the pictures didn't exist, but I think a lot of people that were close to me knew gender equality was an issue but didn't think it was that urgent, that it was a thing of the past."

"This is a real thing that's happening now, women are receiving threats."

"I was raging, it made me so angry, I was like, this is why I have to be doing this. If anything, if they were trying to put me off it, it did the opposite."

Sheridan's got boobs to give us Dolly wood!

BUSTY Sheridan Smith clearly needs a mirror – because she reckons her huge boobs aren't BIG enough.

The blonde former Two Pints of Lager and a Packet of Crisps actress says it's her dream to play country singer Dolly Parton in a movie biopic.

But Sheridan, 33, is worried she doesn't have a suitable top-rack – despite having a cleavage most women are envious of.

She said: "Who would I like to play in a biopic? If I had the breasts, Dolly Parton."

"I'm a big fan. But I'd need a lot of padding."

We doubt that she would! Sheridan sports a 34DD breast and in 2011 stunned fans by posting a snap of her assets to Instagram, which showed her pulling down her vest top while sitting on the edge of a hot tub.

Wrestler is killed by kick in the ring

A PROFESSIONAL wrestler was killed during a fight after snapping his neck.

Pedro Aguayo Ramirez was hurt by a kick from former WWE star Rey Mysterio Jr. Shockingly, the fight continued for two minutes in front of thousands of fans as the 35-year-old (above) lay fatally injured in the ring.

The star, known as Hijo del Perro Aguayo, went limp after being kicked and flying face-first on to the ropes.

But his fellow fighters, including Rey Mysterio, thought it was part of the act, and didn't realise he was seriously injured.

Eventually the match was stopped and he was taken to hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

Aguayo, 35, had been a professional for 20 years and was one of the top stars in Mexico's AAA Wrestling Federation.

The bout topped the bill in Tijuana, Mexico, because it was the first time Rey Mysterio Jr had fought professionally since leaving the WWE earlier this year.

News outlets in Mexico have reported that Rey Mysterio Jr has now received a number of death threats in Mexico following the incident, with a number of fans blaming him for Aguayo's death.

Stripper robs punter with a cattle prod

A STRIPPER stole £400 from a punter after bouncers held a cattle prod to his head.

The victim said he'd asked for a private dance costing £20 but when it was over she tried to grab all the cash from his wallet.

When he tried to stop her she called a bouncer, who held the electric cattle prod to his neck and forced him to hand over all his money.

The victim said a pair of men then pushed him out the back door of the club into the car park.

A friend told police in Myrtle Beach, Florida, that he was at The Masters Club with the victim when the dancer took his pal to the VIP room.

That was the last he heard from him until the victim called to tell him he had been robbed.

No arrests have yet been made.

MAN GETS COW PREGNANT

PREGGERS: Farmer Rustico with cow

By MYDRIM JONES news@sundaysport.co.uk

A FARMER said last night that one of his cows had been made pregnant... by a BLOKE.

Horried Rustico Sarno reckons he caught perv Andy Loyola bumming the pride of his herd at five in the morning.

And she is now expecting a calf despite NEVER mating with a bull.

Rustico pointed the finger at 46-year-old Loyola for impregnating the cow, adding: "There's no way she could be pregnant by a bull. She's never been near one."

"This sick man is to blame after going inside her. There's no other option.

"I caught him in the act. I'd left the cow to graze by the side of the road and found this man having sex with her."

Creature

"Lord knows what kind of creature they will produce."

Cops confirmed that the white cow would be tested to try to find out just how she got up the duff.

They suspect Loyola was high on dope during the sordid sex session.

And various drug paraphernalia was seized from him during his arrest in Cavite near the Philippines capital of Manila.

Police revealed he has shagged two other cows in different areas.

Rustico, 50, added: "He also molested some of my other animals, including horses, goats and a water buffalo."

Loyola is being held in jail facing charges of violating the Animal Welfare Act.

SHE'S BRITAIN'S ONLY TOPLESS COLUMNIST

Follow me on Twitter @linsey_dawn

● I WAS delighted to hear that little Ashya King has been declared cancer-free months after his parents were held in a Spanish jail for taking him out of a British hospital to get him treated in the Czech Republic.

His mum and dad were adamant Ashya desperately needed proton therapy treatment to cure a brain tumour, but it was not available on the NHS.

And this week his family celebrated a "miracle recovery".

I am happy beyond words – but also furious at the NHS and most of all, I feel desperately sorry for the families of children already dead.

They are probably thinking to themselves: "Why couldn't we have done what Ashya's parents did?"

TOP TURN: Flour and Lauren (left) and me and my sis (right)

● I WENT to see The X Factor live show last weekend – and it was bloody BRILLIANT!

I had a fantastic time watching all the finalists perform – including Ben Haenow, Fleur East and Lauren Platt.

The standard of vocals was amazing. There are lots of rumours about auto-tuning on The X Factor, so I was really surprised.

It was a fun concert and I got to watch it all with my sister. We even took a selfie at the gig.

I would really recommend it if you're a fan of the TV show!

1D heading in the wrong direction!

STARS: Zayn and Louis

IT looks like One Direction are in trouble, after singer Zayn Malik quit the tour because of "stress".

I'm sorry, but what exactly does he have to be stressed about?

He's a top pop star and a multi-millionaire with the world at his feet – why would you possibly feel "stressed"?

Well, apparently it's all about a girl. Namely, his fiancée Perrie Edwards, from the girlband Little Mix.

Poor Zayn was spotted last week holding hands with a mystery girl on tour, later identified as backpacker Lauren Richardson.

The dust had just started to settle on that drama when it emerged Louis Tomlinson's long-term relationship with his girlfriend had ended – he didn't have much choice but to admit it when pictures emerged of him snogging a girl at a pool party.

Victim

I feel sorry for her because she's having to deal with all the press attention over here on her own and she's the victim in all this.

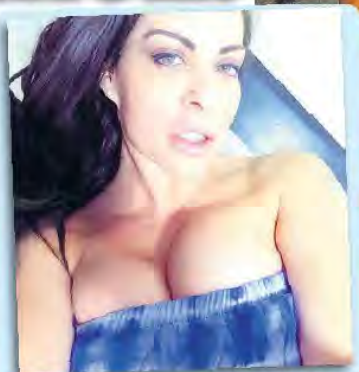

At least Perrie has the Little Mix PR machine to protect her.

Trouble is, girls, you can't really expect young lads to just sit around on their own in a hotel room, can you?

If Perrie has ordered Zayn to leave the tour in order to get him home and give him what for, then I'm very disappointed in her.

They may love each other, but their careers must come first. Can you imagine telling your partner to quit their job because you were having relationship problems? No way!

I feel sorry for her, but he's clearly not going to change his ways.

● I'M going on holiday to Turkey next week, which is very exciting. But there's one big problem – none of my summer clothes fit! My boobs just keep getting bigger – my fans are loving it, but I'm getting FRUSTRATED! I'll need to hit the shops this week and stock up on lots of new dresses, bras and tiny bikinis.

Seriously, my boobs are sticking out of the bottom of my crop tops and my bikinis barely cover my nipples at the moment!

It looks like someone has literally PUMPED my top rack up!

● I'M a proper TV junkie, and have been watching lots and lots of box sets this week.

There's so much great telly on these days it can be hard to decide what to watch.

I've been hooked on Sky Atlantic's Fortitude for the last few weeks – it's brilliant!

It's a mysterious thriller set in a small Arctic town, but a disease grows underneath the ice that makes people violent.

I won't give too much away, but it's really, really good.

And I've been watching Mr Selfridge, too. And not just because of those gorgeous sisters Kara and Hannah Tointon – though they are HOT!

The costumes are amazing. Well worth a look, folks!

● ON the subject of reality TV, I've been a bit disappointed with the Beeb's The Voice recently.

I've always thought of it as a more serious alternative to The X Factor – mainly because they don't have any "joke" acts – like that Stevi Ritchie!

But that seems to have changed... just look at Vikesh Champarneri (below).

He was the ONLY contestant last weekend to have a "wacky" stage show. Some of the others didn't have any staging at all.

He performed with a circus dance troupe and ended the song flying off the stage! What was he thinking?

Lots of people have compared him to Rylan Clark – which is a bloody disaster!

He may well have ruined his chances of having a proper career after the show ends.

And why? Because the BBC are desperate to beat ITV in the ratings. Poor show, Auntie Beeb!

My orgy hell in seedy drug den

GHEUTTA THERE: Valleys star Lateysha and pals lured to drug den

By ANN COATES
news@sundaysport.co.uk

THE Valleys' Lateysha Grace told of her ORGY hell-and reveals how she was threatened by sex-crazed CRACK dealers.

The 22-year-old Welsh beauty was partying with friends at a posh London nightclub when a group of strangers invited them back to their 'penthouse apartment'.

They piled in a taxi and eventually showed up at a run-down DRUG DEN – and Lateysha and her pals were terrified.

Gorgeous

She says: "We did our usual lap around the club and it didn't take us long to get chatting to some guys."

"All night, they'd been telling us how they had this gorgeous flat, where we could all hang until we sobered up."

"We had nowhere else to go, these guys seemed cool, and without further thought, we decided to go home with them."

"A huge minibus arrived to take us back to their place. After thirty minutes, I was getting nervous, but what else could we do? I didn't even know where we were."

Ghetto

"Eventually the car finally pulled up at what can only be described as a ghetto."

"This was not a penthouse. It was a block of high-rise flats in the middle of some rundown estate."

"When we walked into their apartment, it was like a smack den. The curtains were all ripped, the walls were stained and the furniture was old and falling to pieces."

"There were guys in there who hadn't even been out that night, sitting in the living room smoking spliffs and drinking cans of lager. The place reeked."

"The ringleader of the group – a guy called Jerome – said to the guys who had been sitting in the flat, 'I told you I'd bring some birds back'."

"When I heard that, I knew we had to get out of there. This was not going to be the fun party we all thought it would be."

"Then another guy swung open a bedroom door, licked his lips and stood before us, stroking his cock, saying, 'Who's going to fck me first?'"

BY VALLEYS STAR LATEYSHA GRACE

Fortunately, Lateysha and her pals managed to get away from the dingy flat – and she learned a valuable lesson.

She continued: "We can all laugh about it now, but it was one of the scariest moments of my life."

"Just a word of warning – don't ever go back to a party with people you don't know."

Say hello again to my little friend!

CLASSIC gangster flick Scarface is set to reach another generation of movie fans after plans for its REMAKE were announced.

The original Al Pacino flick, which tells the story of Cuban refugee-turned drug kingpin Tony Montana, coined the line, 'Say hello to my little friend!'

The 1983 movie, directed by Brian De Palma, also featured brutal shoot-outs and a particularly bloody chainsaw scene.

Now Universal is working on a modern update, with the action moving from Miami to Los Angeles.

Straight Outta Compton screenwriter Jonathan Herman is the man tasked with penning a new script – while Universal are also working on a remake of vintage Alfred Hitchcock horror The Birds.

MAN'S PENIS CUT OFF IN BOTCHED KIDNEY OP

CUT-UP: Costica is now suing hospital which cost him cock

A FORMER soldier is suing a hospital after he went to have a kidney operation - and ended up having his PENIS amputated.

Costica Maroleanu, 55, had gone into hospital suffering from kidney failure.

Although the surgery was successful, a nurse later fitted his catheter incorrectly, causing Costica's cock to become severely infected and leaving doctors with no option but to remove the penis in order to save his life.

He said: "After the operation they told me there were complications.

Foreskin

"Apparently the nurse had not properly fitted a small plastic pipe to help me urinate, and my penis became red and infected.

"I was moved to intensive care and four days later was moved to the nephrology department where they took a sample, but then they just left me there for 10 days.

"Eventually they did an operation, but then doctor went on holiday."

Costica later underwent a series of examinations, with doctors concluding the only thing they could do was to amputate the infected penis to save him. A spokesman for the hospital said: "The foreskin was stripped away completely and most of the cells in the organ were dead.

"The member was black and the only remaining skin was at the base of the shaft and highly infectious. It was recommended to remove the necrotic elements...amputation."

Costica said: "It was totally cut off. Now I urinate through an orifice that doctors made between my anus and my testicles. I urinate just like a woman. I'm devastated."

He is now demanding £362,450 compo from the original hospital in his hometown of Buzau, Romania.

He said: "If they hadn't botched things up at the beginning this wouldn't have happened."

But Prof Nicolae Calomfirescu, head of Romania's Sexual Medicine Association, said: "I'm not sure he will win by saying he is devastated and has to go to the toilet like a woman.

"Should he be devastated by the loss of his penis? I would say the man needs to be psychologically evaluated."

Hands off my bum says Cheryl!

THE X Factor judge Cheryl Cole has announced: "I love my sexy tattoos!"

The ex-Girls Aloud star had a massive inking across her arse of rose blossoms - but snooty critics didn't like it.

Now the 31-year-old has hit back, and says she's proud of her body art.

Bloom

Cheryl said: "I absolutely love my tattoos. My friends say 'Cheryl, you might regret it' but to me, it's art.

"It's my roses, my life. Some are in bud, some are in bloom.

"That's actually how I felt about myself - coming into flower.

"And it makes me angry when people try and turn it into a class thing.

"To me, it's art and it's personal."

Breast milk's big business

SELLING breast milk is becoming big business with women increasingly offering their surplus boob-juice.

Websites such as onlythebreast.co.uk offer a forum for mothers to sell or donate their milk, with headings such as "Nuneaton - fatty, nutritious, healthy breast milk" and "Dairy free breast milk for sale - Dagenham".

It also features buyers' listings, with the biggest category by far headed "men wanting milk".

Bodybuilders wanting to build up their muscles have also become keen consumers of breast milk.

Some women sell their milk for up to £12.50 a £12.50 a bottle and make a steady income from it.

MIDWEEK Sport NUMBER 1 FOR TV BOOBS

NCI...YES!

CHECK 'EM OUT: NCIS star Sasha goes topless in Shameless

Former star of hit TV show TOPLESS!

HERE are the boobs we sadly never got to see on the top rated US crime show NCIS.

They belong to Sasha Alexander, one of the show's original stars.

Her character, Caitlin Todd, was killed by a rogue sniper at the end of the second series in 2005.

But luckily she's back at the moment as the first series is currently being repeated on 5USA on Wednesday evenings.

The 41-year-old's character Caitlin was replaced by Mossad agent Ziva David (played by Cole de Pablo) who turns out to be the sniper's half-sister. Earlier this year, Sasha stripped off for the U.S. version of Shameless as a sexy college professor who boinks one of her students.

Sexy

She said: "I love my character because she's in full control of her body and her mind, and she knows what she wants."

KILLER NEWT THE SIZE OF A VAUXHALL CORSA!

CAR BLIMEY! Huge amphibian was same size as small motor

A KILLER newt the size of a small car which roamed lakes and rivers in the time of the dinosaurs has been discovered in Portugal.

The Metoposaurus algarvensis once took the place of crocodiles as a top predator when they lived more than 200 million years ago.

A distant relative of today's salamander, the fossilised remains were unearthed during a dig at an ancient lake in southern Portugal which may have been home to hundreds of the creatures.

Dr Steve Brusatte, from the University of Edinburgh's School of GeoSciences, who led a study of Metoposaurus published in the Journal of Vertebrate Paleontology, said: "This new amphibian looks like something out of a bad monster movie."

"It was as long as a small car and had hundreds of sharp teeth in its big flat head, which kind of looks like a toilet seat when the jaws snap shut."

"It was the type of fierce predator that the very first dinosaurs had to put up with if they strayed too close to the water, long before the glory days of T. rex and Brachiosaurus."

The family of giant amphibians to which Metoposaurus belonged included other species found in parts of modern-day Africa, Europe, India and the U.S.

All were wiped out during a mass extinction 201 million years ago, long before the death of the dinosaurs.

The extinction killed off many groups of vertebrates - including giant amphibians - and paved the way for dinosaurs to take over the Earth.

Rebel Bez: Politics is just like dancing!

HAPPY Mondays dancer Mark 'Bez' Berry admits that his anti-fracking Reality Party is inspired by his wild music career.

The 50-year-old, born in Bolton, Gtr Manchester, said that both his politics and music were expressions of "rebellion".

He added: "There's no difference between the Bez you see on and off stage."

"It's just a different kind of expression."

"I'm still rebelling against the system, but now I'm rebelling through politics instead of dancing."

Last year, Bez who won Celebrity Big Brother back in 2005 - announced he would stand as a candidate for the Salford and Eccles constituency in Manchester.

He is the founder and leader of the Reality Party, and is running on a platform of "free energy, free food and free anything".

Ed cameo in Home and Away

GINGER pop star Ed Sheeran is set to appear in Aussie teen soap Home And Away. The Make It Rain singer enjoyed the Australian sunshine on the Palm Beach set of the Channel 5 soap as he filmed a scene with Emily Symons, who plays much-loved character Marilyn Chambers.

Sheeran, 24, who is currently on tour Down Under, will appear as himself in the soap, in an episode to air later this year.

Details of the plot that brings him to Summer Bay are still under wraps.

He said: "It's an Australian institution. It's always on in my local chip shop."

"I got asked to do it and it sounded like it could be fun. I did Shortland Street in New Zealand as well and I'm sure if Emmerdale or EastEnders ever ask me in England I would do that as well."

"I have got to a point where I really don't care what people think so I'm doing stuff because I enjoy it now rather than because it might be cool."

HOLLYWOOD beauty Michelle Rodriguez has revealed she went NOOKIE MAD due to the death of Hollywood heartthrob Paul Walker.

Bisexual babe Michelle confessed she went on a bonking "binge" while she mourned her Fast & Furious 7 co-star and close friend Paul.

Michelle claimed went "crazy a little bit" and embarked on months of sex which allegedly included romps with Brit supermodel Cara Delevingne and actor Zac Efron.

The former Lost star admitted: "I actually went on a bit of a binge. I went crazy a little bit. I went pretty crazy

"A lot of the stuff I did last year I would never do had I been in my right mind."

"I was pushing myself to feel. I felt like nothing I could do could make me feel alive, so I just kept pushing myself harder and harder."

"I was travelling and I was having sex. And I was just trying to ignore everything that I was feeling."

Michelle told US magazine Entertainment Weekly that Walker's death in a car accident in 2013 had left a "huge void" in her life.

KNIFE NUT WIFE KILLER GETS 29YRS

DEAD: Keisha

A JAMAICAN national who murdered his wife and left two more women for dead in a ferocious killing spree will spend at least 29 years behind bars before he is deported.

Desmond Brooks, 42, accused his victims of "nagging" and "disrespecting" him before he armed himself with knives and launched the horrific 35-minute rampage of violence at two flats in Brixton, south London.

He was jailed yesterday for life with a minimum of 29 years at the Old Bailey after pleading guilty to murdering his wife.

He was also sentenced to 19 years for the attempted murder of his ex-girlfriend, Joan Wade, plus 12 years for inflicting grievous bodily harm on his sister-in-law.

Horried neighbours and passers-by witnessed him chopping and slashing at 46-year-old Miss Wade with a meat cleaver and a kitchen knife after she fled on to her balcony.

Arming himself with another knife, Brooks then went to the nearby home of his estranged wife, Keisha McKenzie, 28, and began stabbing her in the hallway when she answered the door.

Brooks broke off from the assault on Ms McKenzie and forced his way through the door to repeatedly stab Miss McKenzie's 17-year-old sister, Saffron Yeboah-Simpson.

Miss McKenzie had more than 42 separate injuries while two of Miss Wade's fingers were chopped off and her lip and tongue had been sliced through.

A PRETTY brunette teacher who admitted having sex in her car with a TEENAGER is now facing a jail term.

Jessica Streep was caught after an anonymous tip off to police telling them she was sleeping with a 14-year-old student. During interviews the lad admitted bonking SEVEN times, including five in the car and twice at her home.

Cops also examined the boy's phone and found a string of sexually explicit text messages between the pair.

When they asked the 34-year-old (above) about the affair she confessed all.

Yesterday she pleaded guilty to deviate sexual intercourse.

She is due to be sentenced next month but has been warned to expect jail time.

A police source in Maryland, US said: "We hope she does time. This may seem like fun but it's not. "It's a sex crime."

Blood 'n gore band banned

A DEATH metal rock band who mutilate each other on stage with CHEESE-GRATERS have been BANNED from playing in Glasgow.

American group Eat The Turnbuckle are mid-way through a European tour.

But bosses in Scotland refused to let them take to the Audio venue stage over concerns that police would stop the gig.

Guitarist El Schlak-O—who attacks his fellow bandmates with an array of weapons including baseball bats studded with barbed wire—said: “We showed up. We are on tour and we came, but the city had got wind of it and some official pulled the permit and the show got pulled.

"I don't know what the problem was. We keep our stage antics and violence to ourselves. It doesn't disperse amongst the crowd."

SHE DID IT: Jenna Hoskins is the woman in the pic

EX ON THE BEACH star Rogan O'Connor is at the centre of a HARDCORE porn scandal!

The hunky 24-year-old uploaded a photo of himself having sex with a mystery blonde on Twitter last week.

Twitter users went into a FRENZY over the saucy snap – which shows the naked MTV star thrusting into his partner from behind.

Rogan, from Stratford-Upon-Avon, deleted the image after Sunday Sport contacted his management for comment.

Meanwhile, ex-girlfriend Jess Impiazzi, 25, furiously denied claims she was the woman in the picture.

Jess tweeted: "NO that is absolutely not me!"

And she's absolutely right - because ~~we~~ can EXCLUSIVELY reveal the real identity of Rogan's conquest... porn star Jenna Hoskins!

Dirty

Shortly after he uploaded the image, Jenna cheekily tweeted: "@Rogan_OConnor I wonder who that is"

Rogan and Jenna have been flirting outrageously for weeks - and he even admitted they are planning a romantic trip to New York.

LIZ DOES A RITA!

By NEIL GOODWIN neil@sundaysport.co.uk

ITV is heading for a CLEAVAGE scandal after Liz Hurley flashed plenty of her BOOBS during an interview on This Morning.

The astonishing display of norkage comes after the BBC was forced to issue an apology when singer Rita Ora's jiggling breasts upset viewers of The One Show back in January.

Liz's ample pair made an appearance as she plugged her new E! series The Royals, which starts tonight (Weds).

And the actress, 49, quickly sent Twitter into meltdown. One viewer said: "I feel like #LizHurley's cleavage is the true star of The Royals."

Villain

Liz is no stranger to displaying acres of flesh - she's bared her naked breasts in a variety of film roles.

Meanwhile Liz says she's based her character Queen Helena on actress Joan Collins and the late Princess Diana.

She said: "It is pure fiction and you see within a few seconds that it's nothing to do with the real Royal family, so I could really pull on anyone I wanted."

"The jury's a little out whether my character is a hero or a real villain."

Want better sex? Go back to sleep!

By JOSEPH SCRIMSHIRE
joseph@sundaysport.co.uk

WOMEN who sleep for longer have better SEX – and they're more likely to feel horny in the morning!

A new study reveals that every extra hour spent snoozing made women 14 per cent more likely to have it off the next day.

And the research also reported that participants said that a good night's sleep increased their "genital arousal".

Dr David Kalmbach, from the University of Michigan, said: "Our study showed that good sleep is important for healthy sexual desire and arousal in women."

"Some previous studies have suggested that sleep can affect hormone levels, which may cause changes in desire and arousal."

"But I think, overall, a lot more research is needed in this area to identify all the underlying mechanisms considerably more confidently."

"The message is that sleep health is important for many areas of our daily living."

Arousal

"A good night's sleep has in the past been shown to improve our mood, energy, concentration, overall health, and now sexual desire and arousal."

Glamour model Caitlyn Klass, 24, reckons it's a great bit of bedroom advice for lads and babes, too!

The St. Helens beauty says that she always feels HORNY after a proper night's sleep.

The 34C babe said: "I much prefer having sex in the morning. I'm often tired at night."

"There's no better feeling than waking up next to your partner and feeling totally refreshed. You're full of energy and really up for a romp."

"It's better than trying to have sex when you're knackered – you won't put in your best effort!"

'No-strings romp at 30,000 feet with total stranger is ultimate thrill'

ESSEX beauty Charlie Rose has revealed her most intimate desire... having sex at 30,000ft!

The 21-year-old model is a frequent flyer, but has NEVER joined the Mile High Club.

And Charlie – who boasts bra-bustin' 34D boobs – reckons it's the perfect place for no-strings romps!

In an EXCLUSIVE interview with Midweek Sport, Charlie gives a steamy account of her favourite ever sex fantasy.

She confessed: 'I think my biggest fantasy is joining the Mile High Club! I know it's a cliché, but it's a real turn-on.'

'I do a lot of travelling, so I always find myself getting bored during flights or at airports.'

'I just think it would be a really fun place for no-strings attached sex. You could just hook up and then go your separate ways – no worries.

"At the airport, there are always a few attractive guys. Wouldn't it be naughty just to have a flirt and see what happens?"

"I can imagine being at the gate and meeting a really fit bloke. It would start with some eye contact and a cheeky smile.

Teasing

"Then he would come over to speak with me and he'd act really confident, which I find sexy.

"After we get on the plane, I'll give him a seductive look and show off my well-toned legs.

"And, of course, he won't be able to keep his eyes off me because I'd be wearing my best stockings!

"After a few hours of teasing, I would walk over to him and whisper into his ear, 'If you'd like to see more, just follow me into the bathroom'.

"Then I stroll off, giving him a lovely view of my bottom... and how could he resist?"

"I just find the whole scenario so thrilling – having sex with a perfect stranger on a flight.

"But it would have to be First Class! I can't imagine it being very comfortable on a budget airline.

"Or it could even be one of those fancy planes where you have a little compartment and bed.

"I'd love to invite a sexy bloke over while everyone else is asleep – but we'd have to be quiet!"

WELCOME to the World famous Sport Agony page! No other newspaper's agony aunts can offer the level of advice – or experience – than our own Agony Angels! This week Nickie Ann has been reading your letters. And here's her advice for you...

Dear Nickie,

I MET a gorgeous girl in the pub the other night. She looked stunning with dark hair, long legs and terrific tits.

I decided straight away that I was going to pull her, so I offered to buy her a drink.

I was soon well in with her and she'd just agreed to come back to my place for a shag when her double walked in and joined us. It turned out to be her twin sister, who was just as fit, but when I came back from the bogs I couldn't work out which one I'd propositioned.

And I had to shag both of them. What about that?
ED, Teesside

Nickie says...

ARE you sure you weren't just seeing double from all the booze?

Humiliating payback for sister-in-law fling

Dear Nickie,

I MET my wife two-and-a-half years ago and we got married six months ago. But at the reception I got drunk and ended up shagging her 18-year-old sister. A few weeks later my worst nightmare was confirmed when she told my wife everything. The missus was not a happy bunny, to say the least. Then after about three months of torture, she said she was finally ready to forgive me, but only if I always did what she said. I agreed and she called her best friend to come round. I was stripped naked and waxed everywhere – legs, pubes, face. Then they did my make-up and hair and dressed me in ladies' clothes – pants, bra, micro-mini. All the time they were putting me through this, they were laughing their heads off.

When I was finally "ready", they made me go to a notorious red-light district and try to pick up some customers.

Quickie

They hid around the corner and watched as kerb-crawlers eased up and down the strip.

When one guy rolled up and said he'd pay me £150 for a shag, I was a little bit tempted to take the cash and do a runner.

Instead, my wife and her pal intervened. They ran over to the car and got rid of him.

Then they took me home, but the humiliation still wasn't over for me as

Letter of the day

both of them stripped off in front of me in the bedroom and pulled on strap-on cocks.

They had a quickie with each other while I watched and wanked off, before they then turned their attention to me.

They both bugged me up the ass with their strap-ons – and I was shocked afterwards when they said this would be a regular occurrence.

I've never felt so low and I don't think I can take much more.

What do you think I should do?
GH, South Yorks

Nickie says...

EVER heard of divorce?

Dear Nickie,

I RECENTLY moved into a small village in the countryside and was introduced to the Lord of the Manor and his wife.

He was a crusty guy of about 70, but his wife was about half his age.

At the local pub, she sat next to me and I felt her hand on my leg. She fumbled with the zip of my trousers and slid her hand inside, taking hold of my testicles.

I guided her into the toilets and bent her over. She squealed with delight as I buried my tongue up her moist fanny.

I then shafted her hard and fast, which brought her to a noisy climax.

She says it was her way of welcoming me to the village.

What do you think is going on?

TC, South West

Nickie says...

COUNTRY ways can be strange.

Cream tease a tasty treat

Dear Nickie,

I HAD never enjoyed giving blowjobs, but now I can't get enough – thanks to whipped cream.

It began a couple of weeks ago when I went out with my new fella for dinner at a retro place and I ordered a banana split for dessert.

I was teasing him by eating the banana in a provocative way.

I could see he was getting aroused and decided to get him really horny by saying I'd eat anything covered in cream.

Squirty

He knew what I meant and the next time he called round he brought a can of the squirty stuff.

I invited him to show me what he had on the menu and he dropped his pants. I must say I was very impressed with the size of his banana.

I slipped out of my dress and dropped to me knees. His cock was standing to attention, so I squirted the cream along his length before slipping my lips round it. The cream tasted delicious when mixed with his manly scent and I licked and sucked on it for ages.

I decided to take things further and pushed him back on the carpet. I got my can of cream and covered his thighs and belly.

He was so hot the cream started to melt as I slurped and licked at his burning flesh.

Then I "encouraged" him to give me oral. I spread my thighs and put a little mound of cream on my clitty and told him to enjoy his meal.

For the next 15 minutes or so he licked my soaking pussy and I came hard.

Now it's an essential part of our regular foreplay and I can't imagine giving him a blowjob without it.

DH, North London

Nickie says...

YOU'D better keep your eye on your weight.

Dear Nickie,

I WAS clearing out the boxroom at our house the other day when I came across some holiday snaps taken 50 years ago.

One showed my wife-to-be coming out of the sea in a tiny red bikini looking absolutely ravishing.

I showed them to the missus before we went to bed. We had the greatest sex since that time on our hols.

How about that?

AH, North Lincs

Nickie says...

YOU must have been in 70th heaven.

Dear Nickie,

I WORK as a tailor and was making a wedding suit for a guy the other week.

For his second fitting he came in with a woman I knew wasn't his intended.

She wanted a "business suit" making. She took off her shirt and treads and stood there in a bright yellow lingerie set.

I went round the back to get some fabric and when I came back I saw the guy yank her knix down and work her dark mound with his fingers.

When he started buffing her from behind, she was looking straight at me in the mirror.

I had my cock in my hand beating off and she smiled at me, licking her lips.

She giggled when I shot my load and he turned round and started laughing too.

Do you think I should tell his wife-to-be, who's a good friend of mine?

HJ, West Midlands

Nickie says...

TRICKY to explain. Best forget it.

Haven't seen your favourite model for a while? Drop us a note and we'll put her in the paper! Email request@sundaysport.co.uk

KATHY LLOYD

VOLUPTUOUS Kathy Lloyd hails from the golden era of glamour – when the models were superstars in their own right.

So says reader Andy French, 30, from Oxford, who yearns for the days when girls like Liverpudlian Kathy were regularly appearing in the newspapers.

Librarian Andy – who also describes himself as a "keen Volvo enthusiast" – said: "The sight of Kathy Lloyd topless could knock me dead at twenty paces."

"She had amazing boobs, flawless skin and gorgeous cheekbones – she had the lot." Calm down, Andy. Calm down...

TINDRA MANTEL

NO prizes for guessing which gorgeous glamour girl Fred Turnbull wants in his passenger seat!

Because the 46-year-old bus driver from Camden, north London, reckons his all-time favourite pin-up is the lovely Tindra Mantel!

The Swedish stunna, 27, hasn't graced the pages of the Sport for several years – but she's still a readers' favourite!

Fred said: "Tindra is classic beauty with an excellent pair of boobs. They don't make 'em like they used to!"

Marie McRae says...

FINALLY, someone has said it! Sex doesn't always have to be experimental, it can just be good, dirty fun.

I've been with my partner now for two-and-a-half years and we still laugh at our 'spice things up' stage.

It was about six months ago and one night I surprised him with ropes and bondage tape.

Let's just say it ended with us both in a tangled heap!

I have great sex with my boyfriend, but it would still be considered quite 'boring' compared to a porn flick.

But it doesn't matter. The most important thing is that we're both happy.

If it ain't broke, don't fix it!

Emma Mitchell says...

I THINK there's a lot of pressure on girls today to know different sex positions.

Every women's magazine talks about these crazy, high-flying sex moves... you need to be a gymnast to pull them off!

In my opinion, if you find a position that really works, then just stick with it. Why would you change?

But I don't agree with missionary being best though. I do enjoy watching a guy f*ck me, but I definitely prefer being on top.

I like being in control, it feels much better.

And I can make sure my fella's cock hits just the right spot!

T UP... REAT!

FORGET leather whips and chains – women say they prefer old-fashioned missionary position sex!

A leading relationship expert reckons that kinky romps are a turn-off for Brits – despite the popularity of Fifty Shades of Grey.

Angelica Malin, editor of women's magazine *About F*cking Time*, admits that soft porn flicks can be a distraction in the bedroom.

And the 24-year-old says the best sex is often just the old-fashioned missionary position.

She told Glamour magazine: "Hollywood films, music videos and hyper-sexualised adverts tell us that 'good sex' has to be loud and acrobatic.

Dangling

"It can be. But you don't have to be dangling in a sex swing – not every day.

"Sometimes sex is better when it is most real – when it's all about the connection between you and your partner.

"And missionary is often women's favourite position.

"So we should be celebrating it, rather than dumping it in favour of positions that require advanced yoga training".

Michelle Morgan says...

OH dear? I don't agree with this 'expert' at all. In my opinion, part of the thrill of sex is finding new experiences.

I'm single at the moment, but I used to be the submissive partner in a Fifty Shades-style relationship.

He was an older gentleman and it was so exciting letting him show me all his tricks.

There was never a dull moment, and he was so confident because he knew exactly what he wanted.

After that, I don't think 'normal' sex would do it for me any more.

Sorry, lads!

Just because she's fit...

Sydney James

By NEIL GOODWIN
neil@sundaysport.co.uk

SHE'S got a smile almost as BIG as her boobs.

And 32F Sydney James will have you beaming too as she admits her love of 'kinky fun' in the bedroom.

The 22-year-old, from Brighton, says she can be quite demanding when it comes to sex – ordering her man to give her lingering oral sessions.

And Sydney also told us: "There's nothing I'd refuse to do in the bedroom."

Kinky

"I've pretty much tried everything. I've done all the positions I can think of."

"And I'm no stranger to kinky fun, like handcuffs and gentle spanking."

Bum fun is, though, out of bounds.

She laughed: "No, I'm not into that at all. It would kill me."

"How can I put this? My boyfriend is bigger than the Sky remote! There's no way that monster is going near my bottom!"

TESTS: Fernando Alonso

Alonso: I'm ready to go after crash concussion

FORMULA ONE

FERNANDO ALONSO has declared himself "ready to go" ahead of facing one final hurdle prior to his return to Formula One in Malaysia this weekend.

The double world champion missed the opening round of the season in Australia following a crash in his McLaren in the second pre-season test in Barcelona, in which he sustained concussion.

Alonso has since had numerous tests and examinations to ensure he is fit to step back into the cockpit of his car, with a final medical assessment by the FIA due to be conducted on Thursday at the Sepang International Circuit.

Given the heat and high humidity in Malaysia, the FIA will also be eager to satisfy itself Alonso will be able to cope with the conditions.

The Spaniard is adamant he is fine. He said: "I've been working hard on my fitness and I feel good and ready to go this weekend."

"The heat in Malaysia is always very tough for the drivers, but I've been focusing on this in my training and I'm definitely prepared for all of the weather conditions we can face in Sepang."

Retired

Should Alonso return, he faces an immediate uphill struggle given the lack of performance of McLaren, now reunited and powered again by Honda.

After stand-in Kevin Magnussen retired on the formation lap with a technical issue in Melbourne, Jenson Button could only finish two laps down on race winner Lewis Hamilton in 11th and last place.

Alonso added: "I watched the weekend in Australia very closely and I was in touch with the team from the moment they arrived."

"It's clear we have a lot of work ahead of us, but Jenson's result in Melbourne was encouraging from the point of view of reliability and data collection, which are extremely important."

"The weekend will still be tough, but I'm looking forward to getting into the car for the first time in a grand prix and getting back to racing."

"There's a lot of potential in the car and we will keep pushing every race until we see results."

KP OFF MARK IN ENGLAND CHASE

HEADING IN RIGHT DIRECTION: Pietersen has set ball rolling in mission to play for England again

Batsman targets sensational return after quitting IPL

KEVIN PIETERSEN has agreed a release from his Indian Premier League contract as he seeks a new deal with Surrey to try to reignite his hopes of an England recall.

Pietersen was axed by England in February 2014 after their whitewash in Australia, but is hoping for a sensational international return in time for this summer's Ashes rematch.

The 34-year-old confirmed on his website that he has taken a major step to that end by agreeing a release from the majority of his contract with Sunrisers Hyderabad.

Pietersen said: "I'm hugely grateful for all the support and understanding I've received from everyone at the Sunrisers and the IPL."

"My focus is now very much on the upcoming season in England, and I'm absolutely determined to score as many runs as possible."

Surrey, who de-registered Pietersen at the end of last season, are the front-runners to re-sign him.

His availability for all formats, as soon as possible, has appeared a starting point for that to happen – and Pietersen's presence in early season, rather than spending six weeks at the IPL, is a key development.

New England and Wales Cricket Board chairman Colin Graves this month revived the record-breaking batsman's hopes of a return to the fold.

Desire

But a pre-requisite from Graves was that Pietersen must first of all find a way back into county cricket – and then, of course, start scoring runs again.

Pietersen may still be recalled by the Sunrisers for just a one-week period, should they qualify for the IPL knockout stages between May 19 and May 24.

But that would not be an insurmountable problem for any county interested in securing his services.

KP added: "I have never made any secret of my overwhelming desire to once again represent England."

"I'm going to do everything in my power to earn a recall to the international set-up."

"To once again put on that England shirt would be a privilege and an honour, but now I have to focus on performing domestically and give myself the best possible chance of meriting selection."

CONFIDENT: Van Barneveld

Barney vows to destroy unbeaten MVG record

DARTS

RAYMOND VAN BARNEVELD believes he will ruin Michael van Gerwen's unbeaten start to the Premier League season when they clash in Dublin tomorrow night.

Van Barneveld claimed a stunning win over Phil Taylor in Glasgow a week ago to ignite his battle to avoid elimination.

Next up, he takes on his fellow Dutchman in a repeat of last year's Premier League final.

Barney, 47, claimed victory on that occasion and is out to repeat the success in front of a sell-out Irish crowd.

"I've still got to work hard, but if I can play like I did last week then I'm going to give every opponent a hard night," said Van Barneveld.

"I'm really happy with how I'm playing and with my darts, and last week was unreal."

Favourite

"I'm practising harder than ever before because I know now that if these darts go in like last week, why not every week?"

MVG is the year's form player, the current world No.1 and unbeaten Premier League leader.

"I feel great and confidence is really important in this game," said Van Gerwen, who lifted the Gibraltar Darts Trophy at the weekend.

"I know when I'm confident that I can play really well, and I hope I can keep this going for a long time."

"Raymond will be confident after beating Phil last week. He's a fantastic player, but I will be the huge favourite."

This is the penultimate league night before the bottom two players, after next week's Judgement Night in Manchester, are eliminated.

SECOND NOT GOOD ENOUGH, RAPS RITCHIE

RUGBY UNION

ENGLAND'S fourth successive Six Nations runners-up spot is unacceptable, says RFU chief executive Ian Ritchie.

But Ritchie maintains Stuart Lancaster's men can WIN the Rugby World Cup, which they will host in September and October.

England finished second to Ireland by a difference of six points, falling short despite a heroic 55-35 victory over France on Saturday.

"Four years as runners-up is not acceptable and we are not happy with how that came about," said Ritchie (left).

"If you go back through history, beating in mind a lot of things, we should be winning more in terms of Grand Slams, Six Nations championships, other things."

An opening win in Wales stoked belief. But the home defeat of Italy was followed by a loss to Ireland in Dublin before England finished with wins over Scotland and France.

Head coach Lancaster is still without a tournament win after four attempts.

The 45-year-old is under contract until 2020 and his position is not believed to be under pressure, but Ritchie insisted England had the chance to win this Six Nations.

"We had opportunities," added Ritchie. "Let's be clear, entirely in our control. It was stuff that was in our own hands."

"The Irish deserved the win because of what they did over the five matches."

"We did not do enough over the five matches. There's no point in bleating about it."

"We've got the resources, the talent, the ability. Saturday was a fantastic example of that."

"We've got to make sure we come out for the World Cup and deliver."

16/1 Super Dean set to smash Glass

IT'S going to be a very special night with the Chelsea Glass Trainers' Championship at Sittingbourne live on Sky Sports.

This is one of the best cards ever assembled in the modern era, eight races packed with superstars and I've got every race covered for you.

This is always one of the greatest nights of the year and it's a huge betting night.

Fire

While the money will come for Mark Wallis I think it's really close and could go right to the wire.

Dean Childs is only just starting to fire up his kennel in 2015 but I'm predicting it could start with a real bang and I'm advising we jump on at 16/1 each-way.

Let's look at Dean's team in much more detail.

DEAN CHILDS' TEAM

19.11 T3 Sidarian Teejay

He's had more trials than a serial shoplifter but he is a class act. Prediction 2nd = 7 points.

19.26 T2 Droopys Roller

This looks tough let's hope she does not come last. Prediction 4th = 3 points.

19.43 T3 Millwards Whitey

Four-bend dog with plenty of pace can make podium. Prediction 3rd = 5 points.

19.59 T6 Millwards Teddy

He's a champion and will take the beating in this race. Prediction 1st = 10 points.

20.16 T2 Droopys Cottage

Six-bend bitch running over four-bends, none will be finishing faster. Prediction 3rd = 5 points.

20.33 T2 Droopys Norris

This dog should have won more I'm expecting a big year from him. Prediction 1st = 10 points.

20.51 T3 Droopys Bear

Shocking draw but he's capable of pinging, if he did be a player. Prediction 4th = 3 points.

21.08 T6 Home Raider

This looks tough but he's blessed with early and could surprise a few people. Prediction 3rd = 5 points.

I'm going to say 48 points could win this event or take Dean Childs mighty close.

Gord above as Scotland look strong

OUR TIPS FOR TONIGHT'S INTERNATIONAL MATCHES

SCOTLAND v N IRELAND
TONIGHT, 7.45, SKY SPORTS 1

SCOTLAND have too much strength in depth for an improved Northern Ireland as they clash tonight.

The wheels have come off the Gordon Strachan revival a little thanks to their 3-1 defeat at the hands of England last time — but there's still been a lot to like about the ginger dynamo's reign at Hampden Park.

They are having a solid run in the Euro 2016 qualifiers. After pushing the Germans close away from home, they followed up with wins against Georgia and the Republic Of Ireland, before holding their own with a more than respectable 2-2 draw against Poland.

So you can forgive Strachan for being more bothered about the weekend's qualifier than this friendly but it is a derby match and he'll want to keep the momentum going.

Northern Ireland have been raising their game in qualifiers, with three wins from their last four group games.

That gives them a realistic chance of making their first finals since the Mexico World Cup in 1986.

One thing you should not expect from this game is goals — the Poland game aside, one strike is normally all the Scots can muster. At the same time, Northern Ireland have drawn a scoring blank in their past three competitive games against the Scots.

So it doesn't take a genius to work out that a 1-0 home win looks on the cards here.

A nice quiet game would suit both sides who are both doing surprisingly well in their groups. There's plenty of 9/2 on offer about that scoreline and it looks a bit better value than the best price of 4/5 about Scotland to win by any scoreline.

An away win is uninspiring at 4/1.

REST OF THE ACTION
GERMANY look a good bet to win both halves against Australia tonight.

The home side won't have to come out of first gear to see off the Socceroos and the bookies have hardly taken a chance with offers of 2/11 about the home win.

But there is a bit more value in the special markets and the Germans to win the first half and the second half — treating them as if they were separate games — makes some appeal at 13/10 with Betway, or Stan James are the biggest of the high street layers on 11/10.

If you're looking for a much bigger return than that, then the correct score market is the place to go.

Germany are 6/1 to win 2-0, which looks a little conservative and it makes more sense to have an interest in both 3-0 and 4-0 wins at 7/1 and 10/1 respectively.

The pick of the midweek games comes in Paris, where France are taking on Brazil tomorrow night. The action is live on ITV4 at 8pm.

The home side have to be the favourites to repeat their home win against the Samba Boys from 2011 and Les Bleus are fielding a strong side.

Unbeaten

True, Brazil have improved since the World Cup debacle but the French will be treating this friendly more seriously than most countries as they don't have to qualify for Euro 2016 on their own turf.

Since going out of the World Cup, France are unbeaten in six outings and look a decent price at 31/20 with BetVictor. Brazil can be backed at 19/10 with the same firm, while it's 23/10 best with the Tote about a draw.

Karim Benzema scored the only goal when the French beat Brazil last time and he looks a decent bet to notch first at 11/2 with most firms.

YOUNG LION:
Harry Kane

Bookies in a Harry hurry

DON'T KANE THIS BET

IT'S a record that has stood since Bobby Charlton hung up his comb-over in 1970 but the bookies are already speculating on whether Harry Kane will break his England goalscoring record.

Wayne Rooney is likely to extend the tally beyond Sir Bobby's 49 but you can get 33/1 with Coral that Kane eventually becomes the Three Lions' leading marksman.

And if you want some of that, you're better off calling the men in the white coats rather than the bookies! He hasn't made his debut yet and we're already putting him on 50-plus goals for England.

A more sane wager is the 11/10 with Betfair that the Tottenham starlet hits the target on his debut against Lithuania on Friday night.

Dyche: Clarets won't be blue

BULLISH Burnley boss Sean Dyche insists the Clarets can still save themselves.

Dyche's side went into the international break in the bottom three as they look to avoid an instant return to the Championship.

Their next two games are at home to Spurs and Arsenal, which won't make their task any easier.

But the Clarets are just a point behind free-falling Sunderland and Dyche believes his underdogs can defy the odds and beat the drop.

Dyche (above) said: "I've stayed confident. You've got to remember that about three seconds after we got promoted, they said we've got no chance next year. But we're in there fighting.

"People keep writing about us struggling, but how are we struggling?"

"They thought we'd need snookers by Christmas.

"There's no struggle for us other than our own personal one where we think we've deserved more.

"We'll give our all to stay up - I can assure you of that."

Midfielder Matt Taylor is building up his fitness to return to action next month after being out since August following Achilles surgery.

TOTTY MUST BE TIGHTER!

DANNY ROSE reckons Tottenham must develop a mean streak if they are to deliver on their top-four dream.

Spurs almost managed to throw away two points on Saturday when they were pushed all the way by struggling Leicester at White Hart Lane.

Harry Kane's hat-trick eventually proved the difference as Mauricio Pochettino's side clinched a 4-3 victory.

But with the campaign reaching a crucial stage, left-back Rose (above) admits Spurs can't afford many more close shaves.

He said: "When we're playing well and we go 2-0 up, we have to learn how to go on and score three or four and see out the game.

"When we were two up against Leicester, you could sense they were going to score. We conceded three sloppy goals, but we got away with it."

Diame needs a bit Mo time

STEVE BRUCE says Hull will use the international break to help Mo Diame end his injury nightmare.

The midfielder hasn't featured since December 3 because of an ongoing knee problem.

But the 27-year-old is edging closer to full fitness and is back in training.

Bruce is hopeful Diame (right) will be in the reckoning for the Tigers' survival push - starting with the trip to Swansea on April 4.

He said: "It's a big two weeks for Mo. He's been out for four-and-a-half months.

"When he's right, he'll be a big addition for us. He's been out for a long time so we'll have to see how he trains.

By JAMES McMATH

"He's got to train for the next eight days, then we'll look at putting him into some sort of game."

Diame moved to Hull from West Ham for £3.5million in the summer and he made a flying start to his career at the KC Stadium.

The Senegal star scored four goals in 14 games before injury struck.

Bruce added: "We missed him just like we missed Nikica Jelavic and Michael Dawson.

"When you're without your big guns, it's always a struggle."

SAK TALKS A GOOD GAME

By JOHNNY BELL

MAMADOUSAKHO has revealed he took so long to get to grips with the Premier League because he kept speaking FRENCH on the pitch.

The defender (left) struggled to settle during his first 18 months in Liverpool after arriving from Paris St-Germain for £18million in the summer of 2013.

He made 24 appearances in his first season but never really looked comfortable. However, since returning from injury in mid-December he has been a virtual ever-present after putting in a series of much-improved performances.

And the 25-year-old puts much of that down to finally learning English.

"Do I finally feel happy at Liverpool? Yes, I feel good," he said.

"The most difficult thing has been the language. I'm a man of strong character so when I can't express myself I am always frustrated. If I cannot make myself understood, it is even worse.

"Some people said I should be speaking French and that would allow me to release the tension a bit - except that when I spoke in French on the pitch, nobody understood what I was saying!"

"I told myself, 'This is useless, I really must learn'. It took time, but now it is much better."

Pelle saved by Sim City snub

By JAMES McMATH

MANUEL PELLEGRINI could get a stay of execution at Manchester City after Diego Simeone signed a new five-year deal with Atletico Madrid.

City have been on the hunt for a new boss with Pellegrini's position looking increasingly weak.

The Chilean seems certain to end the season without a trophy, with City out of the Champions League and trailing Premier League leaders Chelsea by six points having played a game more.

That looked like being the end of the line for Pellegrini's reign, with Simeone's success in Madrid - including leading Atletico to the La Liga title and the Champions League final last season - putting him well and truly on the radar of the City hierarchy.

Glory

City's first-choice target remains Bayern Munich manager Pep Guardiola, who looks set to land a second successive Bundesliga title and has guided Bayern into the last eight of the Champions League with ease.

However, the former Barcelona coach still has a further 12 months to run on his contract in Germany.

And now that Simeone is out of the picture, Pellegrini could be given another 12 months to prove his class while City sit tight and wait for Guardiola to give them the nod.

Simeone, who also led Atletico to Europa League glory in 2012, reportedly turned down a "huge offer" to swap Madrid for Manchester in the summer.

But any chance of a change of heart has now been ended by the 44-year-old's decision to stay in Spain until 2020.

Eagerness

Simeone said: "I've made a decision to stay where I am and decisions are sometimes difficult to make in life."

"But I see a club here that is moving forward. I see a real eagerness to grow and people willing to collaborate."

"We all love Atletico Madrid and we all want to grow together."

Pellegrini has claimed City still need more "world-class" players to become a major force, and the champions have again been linked with a mega-money move for Real Madrid's former Manchester United star Cristiano Ronaldo.

Mac blow for O'Neill

REPUBLIC OF IRELAND boss Martin O'Neill has been dealt a blow after winger James McClean limped out of training.

The Wigan midfielder had a scan yesterday morning after pulling up during the warm-up.

O'Neill is already without full-back Stephen Ward, while winger Aiden McGeady hasn't played since the end of January.

McClean's injury could leave his manager with a major decision to make with question marks now hanging over both his specialist wide-men ahead of Sunday night's Euro 2016 qualifier against Group D leaders Poland.

Gill wins FIFA vote

MAN UNITED director David Gill has been elected as Britain's FIFA vice-president.

Gill, who is also vice-chairman of the FA, will succeed Northern Ireland's Jim Boyce in May and will have a four-year term.

The 57-year-old beat Welsh FA president Trevor Lloyd Hughes by 43 votes to 10 in the election by UEFA's 54 member nations at their Vienna congress.

FA chairman Greg Dyke has said he wants Gill to be part of the "awkward squad" on FIFA asking tough questions and keeping an eye on finances.

Wig up for the fight

WIGAN boss Malky Mackay insists his players will fight to the death to stay in the Championship.

Latics are five points from safety and staring at a second relegation in three seasons.

Mackay's side haven't won at home since August, but the former Watford and Cardiff boss claimed: "I've got a group that are absolutely going at it and will until the last minute at Brentford."

"That's how we'll play to the end of the season - I can guarantee that."

"We'll refocus and get ready for the last seven games. We'll be going at it right until the last day."

Buxton out for season

DERBY'S faltering promotion hopes have been dealt another setback with defender Jake Buxton set to miss the rest of the season.

The 30-year-old has missed the Rams' last four games and is now set for back surgery.

Assistant boss Paul Simpson admitted: "Jake could be out for up to eight weeks, so it's a huge blow."

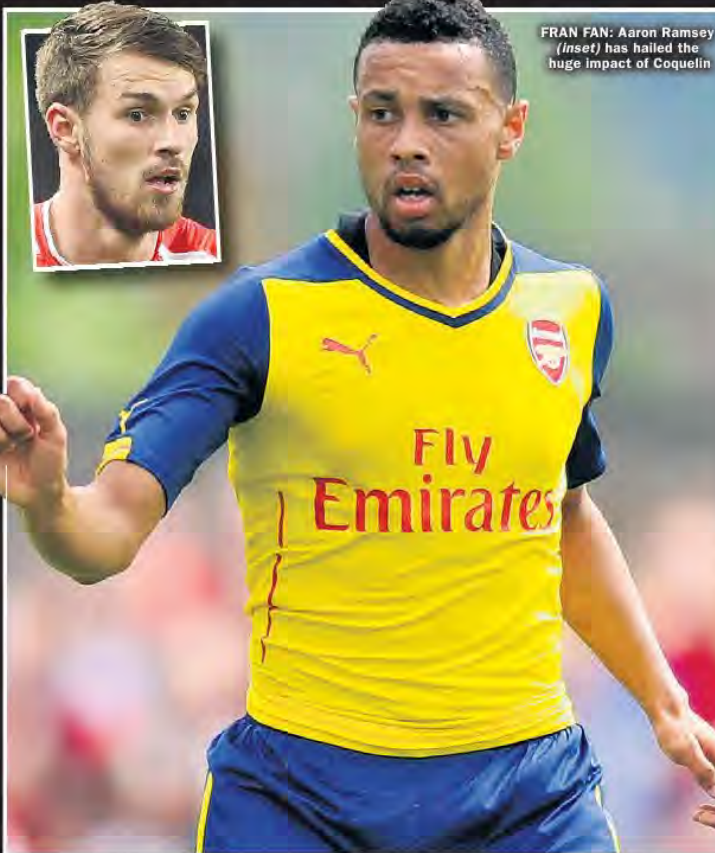

Derby have gone six games without a win to drop to fifth in the table.

But top scorer Chris Martin could be back after the international break following a hamstring injury.

RAM JUST LOVES COQ!

Tough nut makes Gunners tick, says Aaron

FRAN FAN: Aaron Ramsey (inset) has hailed the huge impact of Coquelin

By IAN WINROW

AARON RAMSEY has hailed Francis Coquelin as the midfield enforcer who has transformed Arsenal's season.

Coquelin has given the Gunners some much-needed steel in the middle of the park since being recalled from a loan spell at Charlton Athletic in December.

Since then, the young Frenchman has been in inspired form - and has won more tackles than any other player in the Premier League.

That has given Arsene Wenger's side the spine they were badly lacking during mid-season - and set them on their way to a late challenge for the title.

Ramsey revealed he has been given the green light to get forward more, in the knowledge that Coquelin is behind him doing the dirty work and crunching into challenges.

The Wales international said: "Francis has been really good for us since he's come back here."

"He's very aggressive and he doesn't give the opposition much time on the ball. That's why he wins so many tackles."

Comforting

"He wins the ball for us and makes us tick."

"It's been really good to see his development this year. He's had a superb couple of months and hopefully he can continue his form until the end of the season."

"It's quite comforting knowing that one of the midfielders is behind you in position, thinking more defensively. It is something that he does really well."

Gunners boss Wenger has been accused of stockpiling too many midfielders and having an unbalanced squad.

But Ramsey reckons that has fired up the fight for places in the first team and claims that, as a result, the Gunners are now able to cope with whatever is thrown at them.

He added: "There are a number of players who are more than capable of putting in good performances in the middle and we have shown that with the number of different combinations we've had this season."

"There's a real fight for places and everyone is keeping each other on their toes. It's good that we have that strength in depth now."

SPAIN SWITCH IS REAL RUBBISH, SAYS ADAM

CHARLIE ADAM wants a new deal at Stoke after insisting he has no plans to link up with David Moyes.

The midfielder, 29 (above), has a year left to run on his Potters deal but has been linked with a summer switch to Moyes' Real Sociedad.

However, the Scotland ace revealed he is keen to spend his best remaining years at the Britannia Stadium.

He said: "I love Stoke, it's a great club. Some people think I'm going at the end of the season, but I'm not going anywhere."

"I still have another year to go on my contract. I'll see it out and if the club want to speak about a new contract, I'd be delighted to sign."

By BRENDAN McLOUGHLIN

"The fans are great and they have a good manager in Mark Hughes. Hopefully I can stay here for many years."

"The only reason this story has come out with Sociedad is because David Moyes' brother Kenny is my agent."

"David has done a great job in Spain but I'm happy here until told otherwise."

"I've been at Stoke nearly three years now - and hopefully I can continue here for many years to come."

Knackered toe won't keep Woody down

By PETE OLIVER

FORMER England ace Jonathan Woodgate is ready to play through the pain to get Middlesbrough to the Premier League.

The 35-year-old defender has a broken toe, but he insists he's ready to play if required with only goal difference keeping Boro out of the Championship's automatic promotion places.

The former Tottenham, Newcastle and Leeds man (left) said: "I keep on reading in the papers that I'm injured, but I'm not."

"I have a broken toe, but I can play with that."

"I trained on Tuesday morning and while it's painful, it's not keeping me out."

"I want to play a part in what could be a great end to the season. I've been in enough squads for enough big games to know what it takes and I like what I see in our dressing room."

Mills: World stars won't be blocked by FA's new plan

DANNY MILLS insists plans to limit the number of foreign players in English football are designed to encourage the development of home grown talent – NOT prevent the world's best players from plying their trade in the Premier League.

The FA's stricter work permit rules, approved by the Home Office on Friday, will come into force from May 1 ahead of next season.

The intention is to reduce the number of non-EU players in the Premier League, who are seen as blocking English talent.

FA chairman Greg Dyke also wants the Premier League to drop the number of non-home grown players allowed in a 25-man squad from 17 to 13 and to adjust the definition of "home grown" so that players only qualify if they are registered for three years prior to turning 18, rather than 21.

Stifling

The Premier League have reservations about both those proposed changes.

But Mills, a member of the FA commission created in 2013 to improve the fortunes of the national team, insists the rule changes will not stop the world's best footballers playing in England's top flight.

"We don't want to stop elite players coming over – we want

DENIAL: Danny Mills

as many top players in the Premier League as possible," said Mills.

"What we don't want is those non-EU players who filter down to the Championship and even League Two.

"No disrespect, but they are not the elite and they are stifling home grown talent."

"The emphasis is on the clubs to produce better home grown players."

Platini call to 'get tough' over rising hooliganism fears

MICHEL PLATINI has warned of a return to the "dark days" of hooliganism and has called for tougher stadium bans and a European-wide sports police force.

The UEFA president raised the spectre of the 1985 Heysel disaster and declared there is a growing issue of hooligans and political fanatics taking control in football stadiums in Europe.

Platini was on the pitch for Juventus at the European Cup final in Brussels 30 years ago when 39 people – mainly from the Italian club – died after rioting Liverpool fans charged Juve supporters, causing a wall to collapse.

"Europe is seeing a rise in nationalism and extremism the like of which we have not witnessed for a very long time," said Platini.

"This insidious trend can also be observed in our stadiums, as football is a reflection of society."

Fanatics

"Given its popularity, our sport is a barometer for the ills of our continent."

"And that barometer is pointing to some worrying developments."

"I therefore renew my call for greater awareness of this issue among the public authorities, so that we can avoid reliving the dark days of a not-so-distant past – a past where hooligans and all manner of fanatics called the shots in certain European stadiums."

"In recent months, we

have all been struck by certain images that I thought were a thing of the past.

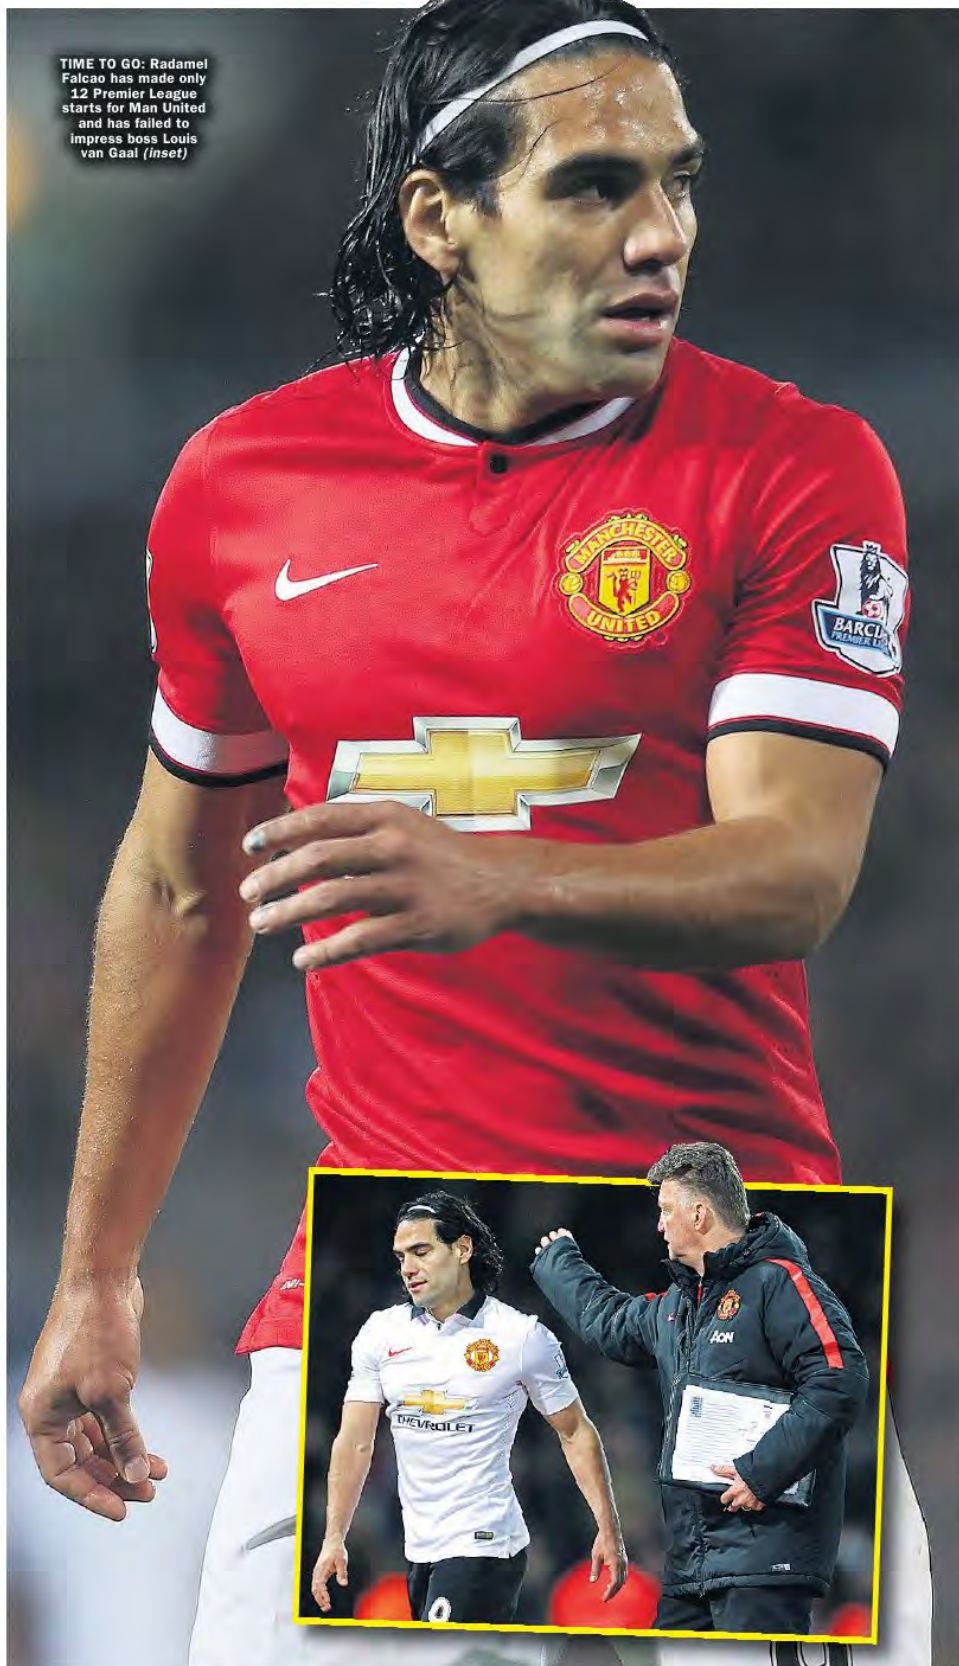

"Some of us experienced that past at first hand. In my case, it was exactly 30 years ago."

"Nobody wants a repeat of such events."

"We need tougher stadium bans at European level and – I will say it again – the creation of a European sports police force."

SPECTACULAR £6M LOAN FAILURE

TIME TO GO: Radamel Falcao has made only 12 Premier League starts for Man United and has failed to impress boss Louis van Gaal (inset)

HAS HAD ENOUGH AT OLD TRAFFORD

FALCAO BLASTS: I'M OFF!

Fed-up United flop will leave in summer

By PETE OLIVER

FED-UP Manchester United striker Radamel Falcao has finally admitted: I'm out of here!

The Colombia striker will leave Old Trafford in the summer in a bid to save his career.

Falcao's £6million loan move from Monaco has been a spectacular failure, with the 29-year-old getting just 12 Premier League starts under manager Louis van Gaal.

The former Porto and Atletico Madrid goalscorer – who has netted just four times for United but picks up £280,000 a week – has pledged to do his best for the rest of the season.

But he admits he needs to be playing regular football and will be on the lookout for a new club in the summer.

Falcao has already been linked with Chelsea, Liverpool and Juventus.

Difficult

And he revealed: "When the championship is finished I will sit and analyse and decide what is best for me."

"Obviously I need a place to have continuity, where I can play."

"I'm completely with the club for the remaining eight games. Anything can happen."

"Every player needs to play, and playing makes you happy."

Van Gaal looks to have given up on Falcao, with Wayne Rooney now restored to a striking role.

Robin van Persie is on his way back from injury and Maroune Fellaini also appears to be ahead of Falcao when it comes to forward options.

That could mean little action

TWO GOOD: Robin van Persie and Wayne Rooney are way ahead of Falcao in the striking pecking order for Falcao between now and the end of the season – unless the team suffer a spate of injuries – as United look to hang on to a top-four place.

Falcao, who was picked for the Under-21s by Van Gaal earlier this month, added: "The personal relationship with him is difficult to explain."

"Each coach has a different way to handle a group and there are cultures, ways of thinking and philosophies."

"He has to make decisions like any other coach, regardless of whether they are favourable or not."

"I try to behave properly and be professional at all times. I take the minutes that I have with the team and I know that much has been said."

"I have to be calm, know that I'm okay."

United are firmly in the driving seat to get back in the Champions League next season after back-to-back wins over top-four rivals Spurs and Liverpool kept them in fourth spot with a five-point cushion over their Kop rivals.

And a number of players – including centre-backs Phil Jones and Chris Smalling – are showing Van Gaal they have a future at Old Trafford.

But that won't stop United spending big in the summer, with Germany defender Mats Hummels top of their wish-list after Borussia Dortmund accepted he can move on for a fee around £36m.

HAMSTRING TROUBLE: Diego Costa

Mourinho relieved Costa will get no extra Spain pain

By IAN WINROW

DIEGO COSTA is back at Chelsea after a hamstring injury ruled the striker out of international duty with Spain.

Costa joined up with the Spanish squad, but was sent back to England after being checked over by medical staff.

The forward's return is a huge relief to Chelsea boss Jose Mourinho, who expressed his concern about Costa's fitness after he was subbed towards the end of Sunday's victory at Hull.

The last thing Mourinho wanted was to risk Costa aggravating the problem.

"We know his hamstring is not a strong one," said Mourinho.

"He works hard through the week to compensate the weakness he has there, but the injury can come."

Mourinho is still smarting from the long-term hamstring problem picked up by Costa when he joined up with Spain last September.

Blow

That injury took weeks to clear up and prevented Costa from featuring in two games in a week.

An extended absence for Costa at this crucial stage of the season would be a massive blow to Chelsea's title hopes.

Loic Remy stepped up to clinch the late winner at Hull and the France forward could take a higher profile role if Costa is sidelined.

Remy said: "It is true

QUALITY: Loic Remy

it is frustrating sitting on the bench, but the manager knows all the team and he has very good quality in the squad."

"That is why when I came on I just played with my quality."

"Scoring goals is my job as a striker. But I know there are only 11 players on the pitch, and as soon the manager needs me I am here."

"The goal was a good moment for me. We are still of top of the league and we keep going in this way."

SKRTEL DENIES STAMP

LIVERPOOL defender Martin Skrtel is fighting the threat of a three-match ban after last night denying a violent conduct charge from the FA.

Slovakia international Skrtel claimed an apparent stamp on Manchester United keeper David de Gea at the end of United's 2-1 win at Anfield on Sunday was accidental and not intentional.

The FA is expected to give a verdict today as Skrtel, 30, tries to avoid missing Premier League matches against Arsenal and Newcastle and an FA Cup quarter-final replay against Blackburn.

GARY CAHILL insists Harry Kane is ready to make his mark for England.

Tottenham striker Kane could make his Three Lions debut against Lithuania on Friday after earning his first call-up to Roy Hodgson's senior squad.

The hitman joined up with his new team-mates on a high after notching a hat-trick in Spurs' 4-3 win over Leicester on Saturday. And Chelsea defender Cahill reckons that is the perfect springboard to launch Kane's international career. The centre-back said: "To score a hat-trick leading up to your first meet is ideal."

"His confidence must be sky-high at the minute and he's had a terrific season."

"Respecting the fact he's still a young boy and it's his first time in the full squad - because it's always a little bit daunting - his confidence must be sky-high and he's a top player."

"Harry has looked really good in training. I've played against him three times this season and he's certainly a handful!"

"He's a fantastic talent. He's not just someone who can hold the ball up, he can run in behind and he's got two good feet. For me, he's got all the attributes."

And Cahill believes Kane will have no problem making the step up to international level.

He added: "We've got four top strikers here who are all chomping at the bit to play."

"They are all good enough to play for England - and Harry is certainly in that bracket."

"To score a hat-trick in the lead-up to his first senior call is fantastic for him, but it's down to the manager to decide who plays."

Kane is likely to find himself in demand this summer with Under-21 boss Gareth Southgate certain to want the striker at the European Championships in the Czech Republic.

Cahill believes that would be the ideal experience for the youngster.

The Chelsea man added: "Sometimes it's out of your control, but when you're asked to play for England, whether it's the seniors or the U21s, if you're English, you want to play - simple as that."

"Whatever is decided, I'm sure he'll accept. He has got a taste of the seniors now and I'm sure he'll be involved in many more squads in the future."

"The U21s have a strong squad, but to play in a tournament will be great for the lads."

"You gain confidence and experience of tournament football. It isn't the seniors at a World Cup or Euros, but it is still vitally important experience."

MART: MY BARK NEEDS BIG BREAK

EVERTON manager Roberto Martinez has called for Ross Barkley to be left out of England's assault on the U21 European Championships in the summer, claiming his midfielder needs a "proper break".

Despite playing for the seniors at last summer's World Cup and now being a permanent fixture in Roy Hodgson's squad, having been selected for the games against Lithuania and Italy, there is still talk about Barkley possibly rejoining the Under-21s for the June tournament in the Czech Republic.

By JOHNNY BELL

Martinez has regularly expressed the opinion that Barkley has outgrown the junior side, mainly because he has already played at a World Cup.

Threatening

The 21-year-old is just starting to rediscover last season's form, most recently in last week's Europa League exit to Dynamo Kiev.

But the Toffees boss is keen for the youngster to have a good rest.

"What Ross brings is the bigger the occasion, the bigger the performance and the bigger the response," said Martinez.

"What was pleasing last Thursday night was to see the old Ross getting away from people, being so threatening with his forward pass and getting his shot away with either foot.

"He hit the post with his left and with his right. I loved seeing the signs of the old Ross appearing.

"But we need to look after him and make sure he has that sort of standard for the rest of the season – and gets a proper break in the summer.

"If we do that, we'll have a player completely fresh and ready for next season."

Wick in the dark about U21s snub

By JASON MELLOR

CONNOR WICKHAM says he's clueless about his England Under-21 snub.

Sunderland's £7million striker was a regular under former boss Stuart Pearce, but hasn't had a look-in under Gareth Southgate.

Wickham again misses out for the friendly double-header against the Czech Republic in Prague on Friday, and Germany at Middlesbrough's Riverside on Monday as the Young Lions build up to this summer's European Championships.

The 21-year-old hasn't even been put on standby, despite three of the four strikers named in the squad pulling out through injury, with Southgate instead calling up Cauley Woodrow from Fulham as cover. It's now almost two years since his last England appearance, and Wickham said: "I don't understand the situation. I've not spoken to anyone in the England set-up."

Wickham (above) scored in the 6-0 rout of Scotland U21s in August 2013.

He withdrew from Southgate's first squad later that season, and hasn't figured since – but he insisted: "I'll never say no to my country."

Blues facing Cech out

PETR CEC has put Arsenal and Liverpool on red alert after he revealed yesterday that he's ready to quit Chelsea. The Czech keeper (left) has started just five Premier League games for the table-toppers this season. And he accepts that his decade of service at Stamford Bridge is coming to an end after losing his No.1 spot to Thibaut Courtois.

The keeper said: "I don't know what the club's idea will be. It looks like it works well with me and Thibaut as a duo."

"But that can work for one season only. I don't want another one like this."

It looks like being a straight fight between Brendan Rodgers and Arsene Wenger in the summer, with both in the market for a proven top-class keeper.

ENGLAND V LITHUANIA

By IAN WINROW

MICHAEL CARRICK admits it's now or never if he is finally to savour success with England.

The Manchester United midfielder, 33, has been thrown an international lifeline after being left out of last summer's World Cup squad.

Carrick is now planning to help the Three Lions move one step further away from last summer's nightmare when they face Lithuania in Friday's Euro 2016 qualifier.

England are on course for the finals in France – and the midfielder reckons that will be his last chance to shine on the biggest stage.

Positive

Carrick said: "I feel great at the moment and happy to be involved. It's very special to be part of the England squad."

"I'm enjoying my football. You get to a certain age and you don't know how long you have left."

"I feel great at the moment and I think I've certainly got another year left in me."

And he added: "All credit to the manager and staff here for putting a run together after the World Cup."

"We have real positive feelings around the squad."

"I love seeing the younger lads coming in and performing with such enthusiasm and energy."
